ELMER E. GARST'S LITTLE BLACK BOOK

Amateur historian E. E. Garst of Stanford, Illinois had a hobby of recording the vital statistics of Stanford residents. He made note of births, deaths, and other local events of interest. A 1952 story by Gene Smedley in The Pantagraph details Mr. Garsts's pastime.

According to his obituary, Elmer Garst died October 4, 1959, just shy of 90 years old. He was born November 12, 1869 to Elias and Elizabeth Kauffman Garst. He married Mary Cramer and they had one son, Cramer. He had been a grocer in Stanford and an insurance agent, and was also a carpenter. He was a member of the Christian church and the Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Garst's record book was donated to the McLean County Museum of History by Janice Outlaw of Bloomington, IL. Ms. Outlaw is the granddaughter of Elfa Garst, half sister of Elmer. Janice received the book from a cousin, Lois Nafziger. It is not known who continued adding entries in the book after Mr. Garst's death.

Below is a transcription of the births and deaths entered in Mr. Garst's book. This book can be seen at the McLean County Museum of History.

No attempt has been made to verify spellings or dates. Not all entries are complete in the original. In some instances, it is not clear whether the years entered were 19th or 20th century. Where a birth date was entered, century unknown, and without a death date, that birth date will be replaced by an * in this transcription. Names have been sorted alphabetically as a finding aid, and events other than births and deaths will be extracted and listed in a separate table.
